RightsLink[®] for Scientific Communications

IEEE provides the RightsLink for Scientific Communications dashboard to our institutional open access customers to make it easier and more convenient for administrators to manage their OA accounts. RightsLink for Scientific Communications is a sophisticated platform that ensures a seamless experience for authors, administrators, and institutions, from pre-submission to post-publication. It helps facilitate the collection, management, and reporting of publication charges for any journal—full OA, hybrid, or subscription.

Using the RightsLink communications module, publishers can trigger multiple email offers to authors that include a dynamic link to the automated RightsLink workflow. Real-time API data and reporting make it easy to track article charges and payments. The RightsLink online dashboard enables administrators to instantly access the most current information and generate reports as needed.

Key Benefits:

- Author-centric workflow that leverages standard author, institution, and manuscript metadata
- Automated billing payable in 7 currencies by credit card, wire, check, or money order
- Seamless integration with current technology ecosystems
- Dynamic pricing and discount rules at the publisher, journal, and article-type level
- Detailed reporting for all parties in real time from a central source
- Global customer service available by email, phone, and live chat in multiple languages
- Continual updates with improved alerts and platform enhancements
